

Client Legacy Retreat
Region Singapore
Date June 2013
Publication Elle
Headline The Legacy Retreat

MANGO PR

SINGAPORE ELLE WE'RE 20!

HIT THE BEACH! SUPER SWIMSUITS CUTE SUNNIES & CHIC COVER-UPS

JUNE 2013

ELLE BEAUTY IT LIST 2013

75 AMAZING BEAUTY TREATS THAT WORK

+

THE RED LIPSTICK ANYONE CAN WEAR

HOW S'PORE IDOL'S DAPHNE KHOO BEAT CANCER

KAREN MOK NEXT STOP HOLLYWOOD?

THE NEW GLADIATOR SANDAL HOT, FRESH & COVETABLE

SEXY VACAY STYLE OUTFITS FOR EVERY HOLIDAY... INCLUDING THAT GARDEN WEDDING PARTY IN TUSCANY

105 $ 8 887457 031908 >

Client Legacy Retreat
Region Singapore
Date June 2013
Publication Elle
Headline The Legacy Retreat

ACE THE PERFECT TRAVEL ALBUM

American travel photographer and blogger, Trey Ratcliff, shares tips and tricks to make your photo-sharing visually compelling.

LANDSCAPE AND PEOPLE For landscapes, have something interesting in the foreground. For people shots, be sure to get close to the eyes. They are just about all that matters.

MOBILE FOOD PHOTOGRAPHY 1) Get in low, and try not to shoot from a straight-down angle. 2) Get close to the most interesting part of the food and tap on your screen to just focus on that. If you're lucky, everything else will be out of focus and it will look very artsy. 3) Try not to use a filter like you do for your people and landscape photos. Most filters make the food look a bit dingy and unappetising.

SHOOTING IN BAD WEATHER If the weather is bad, focus on details such as cool signs or interesting lights. You can also do things like get close to water droplets on glass and just tap your screen to focus on those. Or even better, pop into an interesting interior and find pretty little things!

GO-TO PHOTO APPS I might be partial, but I use 100 Cameras in 1 [for iPhone]. There's a free version and a paid version with 100 filters for you to use. On Android, the editing app

“I like to confuse people with photos. I enjoy it when they can't quite figure out what they are seeing, or perhaps can't even believe if it is real. This photo of New York City reminds me a lot of Inception, which is one of those thoughtful movies that works on many levels.” TREY RATCLIFF

Snapseed is the way to go.

SHARE ON THE GO Google+ is a great way for me to share my images because I can share them with the public or just with family and friends. It's also pretty slick because even if my whole family doesn't use Google+, it sends them an e-mail with the latest photo! If you're with friends and using Google+, it gets even better. You can create an “Event” for the trip and go into “Party Mode” — all the photos you take automatically go into the event and are shared online with all other participants. It's fun to see multiple views of the event streaming in, all in real time!

See Trey Ratcliff's work and learn more photography tips on his blog, www.stuckincustoms.com

CLICK TO BOOK

When you're too busy to even begin thinking about that much-needed holiday, let those in the business of luxury travel do all the planning for you.

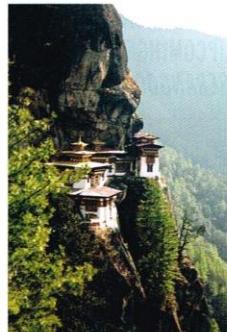

LIGHTFOOT TRAVEL Lightfoottravel.com

Whether you have a destination or just a specific experience in mind, the team at Lightfoot Travel can tailor a luxury holiday to suit. Not only will they settle your accommodation, they can also craft an itinerary for you — from private island getaways to babymoons to weddings and parties — so all you need to do is show up at your destination. Flights not included.

THE LEGACY RETREAT

www.thelagacyretreat.com

When all you need is some time to really disconnect from it all and rejuvenate mentally, physically and emotionally, book into a Legacy Retreat. Whether you're going it alone or as a couple, The Legacy Retreat organises five-day retreats at various beautifully serene destinations (Vietnam, Bhutan, Bali). If you can't make the dates they've scheduled, you can create a private session for you or you and your partner.

URBANE NOMADS www.urbanenomads.com

They call themselves “travel mixologists”. These guys have a track record for producing interesting luxury adventure itineraries that would wow even the most seasoned traveller, because they specialise in remote destinations, like tracing ancient caravan routes in Afghanistan or hunting with the San Bushmen in Botswana. You'll be spoilt for choice.